

History

- Identify the development of the United States regions.
- Describe major historical milestones of the United States regions.
- Identify major discoveries of the United States regions in the early days.
- Describe major languages spoken in early days and today in each region.
- Describe the native peoples of each region.
- Describe major historical milestones in Canada.
- Describe the native peoples of Canada and cultural groups that settled in Canada.
- Describe the major languages spoken in Canada.
- Describe major historical milestones of Mexico.
- Describe the native peoples of Mexico and other cultural groups in the country.
- Describe the major languages spoken in Mexico.
- Describe Pennsylvania history from statehood to present.
- Describe major historical milestones of the region after statehood.
- Describe the major leaders of the region from statehood to the present.
- Describe significant cultural groups and how influence Pennsylvania today.
- Describe major languages spoken in early days and how they affect Pennsylvania today.
- Identify the physical and human features that define places and regions in Pennsylvania.
- Identify Pennsylvania as part of the Northeastern region of the United States.
- Identify regions of the United States as an area with unifying human and natural factors, including different geographic regions of the United States (e.g., Great Plains, Midwest, Northwest, Pacific Coast, Rocky Mountain, Southeast, and Southwest).
- Interpret information from a variety of maps and globes (e.g., contour, population, natural resource, and historical maps).
- Locate important features in the United States on a map after being given the latitude and longitude of that feature.
- Identify the ways European colonists and American Indians viewed and used the environment.
- Describe how and why people create boundaries.
- Locate capitals and states of the region.
- Describe geographical landforms of the region.
- Describe the impact of weather on the way people earn a living.
- Identify each region's resource concerns.

Economics

- Describe the economic base(s) of each United States region.
- Identify the free enterprise system and its benefits.
- Identify the relationship between price, supply, and demand.
- Use economic concepts to explain historical developments
- Use economic reasoning to compare plans.

Civics / Government

- Describe how the regions were settled in the United States in the early days.
- Identify the current President and Vice President of the United States.
- Identify current Pennsylvania leaders.